Mountain Fighters Reported to Have Repelled Assaults in Drive from Klisura in Central Albania, Compelling Fascists to Retire in Such Haste They Leave Dead and Wounded on the Battlefield

WEATHER CAUSES LULL IN BRITAIN AIR SIEGE

By the Associated Press
Greece's mountain fighters reported today they smashed two Italian counter-attacks in the drive north from Klisura in central Albania, compelling the Fascists to retire in such haste they left dead and wounded on the battlefield. Then, the Greeks said, they resumed their advance toward Berat.

The first assault was easily repelled, a Greek government spokesman declared.

The second attack turned out worse. The Italians suffered even heavier losses. They gave up and returned to their position in disorder.

Bad weather caused a lull in the air siege of Britain during the night, but RAF bombers flew through "dirty" skies to pound Nazi air bases shipping and a railway bridge in German-occupied Norway. Two direct hits were reported on a motorship in Stavanger roads on the west coast.

London's millions enjoyed another night of quiet wondering at the continued absence of German raiders since Sunday night.

With the arrival of daylight, however, Nazi bombers returned to the assault. A lone raider machine-gunned a village in northern Scotland and dropped a single bomb. Planes were reported over East Anglia.

Reports reaching Struga Yugoslavia said Albanian guerrillas were laying Fascist lines of communication and ammunition depots this complicating the Italian efforts to stem the Greek advance.

Two Albanian battalions organized by Italians were said to have been disbanded because they refused to fight the Greeks.

There was little news from the North African front as the British continued preparations for an assault on the surrounded Libyan (Turn to Page Nine)

One of New York's Finest Dies in Battle With Bandit

NATIVES ATTACK FASCIST FORCES ON SUDAN FRONT

By the Associated Press
Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan Jan. 15.—(P)—British sources said today that native guerrilla raids had left Italian soldiers in control of only towns and main roads in parts of Fascist-conquered Ethiopia and even those are not always safe.

While British patrols harass Italian guerrillas, these sources said thousands of native tribesmen laid isolated interior posts attack military convoys on roads and even snipe at the Italians in towns.

(The Italian high command in Rome today acknowledged attacks by British armored cars against outposts on the Sudanese frontier but reported they were repulsed with losses.) It conceded slight damage resulted from air raids on some border posts.

Official sources confirmed earlier reports that Ethiopian tribal chiefs had been slipping over the border to confer in Khatoum with their Fascist-deposed emperor, Haile Selassie, and to smuggle British arms and ammunition back to their warriors.

Economic Conquest Costs Little Nation "at Least $1,000,000,000" Since "Made-in-Munich" Occupation in 22 Months

BY LLOYD LEHRBAS
Washington Jan. 15.—(P)—Germany's economic conquest of Czechoslovakia has cost the Czechs "at least $1,000,000,000" since the "made-in-Munich" Nazi occupation 22 months ago according to authoritative information received in diplomatic quarters here.

The reports, compiled by non-Czech sources, state that the Germans also have imposed tribute taxes to assist in financing the Reich's war against Britain. The yield from these was estimated at an additional $100,000,000 annually.

German troops invaded Czechoslovakia on March 15, 1939, and divided the republic into the "protectorate" of Bohemia and Moravia and the independent state of Slovakia. At the time the total population was 6,800,000.

On the heels of the actual military occupation of the "protectorate" the report said an estimated 500,000 Nazis poured in and took over practically all key positions in government, industry and trade.

BOY GUILTY IN DEATH OF CHUM

Harrisburg, Jan. 15.—(P)—Harold Shepherd, 15, convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the shooting of an 11-year-old chum, was promised today that his punishment would be "tempered with mercy."

The judge told the jury of six men and four women last night he would follow their mercy recommendation. He released the boy in the custody of his father.

The dark-eyed youngster who had maintained his composure throughout the two-day trial broke into tears when the jury announced him guilty of involuntary manslaughter and acquitted him of a murder charge, which the state did not press.

Earlier he took the stand in his own defense and testified he did not know the 22-caliber rifle was loaded when he fired the shot from the window of his home that fatally injured 11-year-old John Snively. He told the jury he did not aim at young Snively or any other object.

The slain boy's mother, Mildred F. Snively, testified that her son before he died cried out three times that "Harold shot me." Court attaches said Harold was the youngest person within their memory to face a murder charge in Dauphin county court.

PETRILLO GIVEN NEW CHANCE TO PLEAD FOR LIFE

Harrisburg, Jan. 15.—(P)—Paul Petrillo, 45-year-old South Philadelphia tailor condemned to die for his role in the "murder for insurance" ring which operated in four states will be given a chance to plead for his life before the pardon board January 23.

Petrillo, after first saying he was innocent in the death of Luigi Levacchio changed his plea to guilty in the hope the court would fix the sentence at life imprisonment. He told the board in his application.

He confessed he had "only a minor part" in the death ring as a go-between for another defendant known as Morris "Evil Eye" Bolber who pleaded guilty and awaits sentence.

Assistant District Attorney Vincent McDermott of Philadelphia said of the ring "we know of at least 27 persons who were killed" adding, "Perhaps there were many more."

Judge Albert S. Millar died during the Petrillo trial and the danger little later argued that the succeeding jurors were not in position to rule on the degree of guilt.

Two women and one other man have been sentenced to the electric chair.

Besides this first appeal of a defendant in the insurance cases the board will hear 68 other appeals.

President's Angry Statement That "The Rottenest Thing Said in Public Life in My Generation" Was Being Used as Argument Against Aid-to-Britain Program, Brings Opposition Rejoinder From Senator

CHARGES EXECUTIVE IS LOSING HIS TEMPER

Washington, Jan. 15.—(P)—President Roosevelt's angry assertion that the rottenest thing said in public life in my generation was being used as an argument against the aid-to-Britain program brought an opposition rejoinder today that the president had made the danger of war the foremost issue in the lease-lend armaments bill.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), who readily assumed responsibility for the statement which aroused Mr. Roosevelt, said with seeming elation the president's criticism had raised a "clean cut question: 'Whether or not this bill would lead us into war.'"

The actual start of legislative work on the momentous measure took on heightened interest because of Mr. Roosevelt's unexpected, blunt spoken denunciation of the tactics he laid to some opponents of the bill.

The occasion was the White House press conference yesterday. He had replied to a question concerning one of the broad powers proposed for him in the lease-lend bill. Then he continued vehemently.

That is not an answer to those at all, who talk about plowing under every fourth American child, which I regard as the most unbecomingly un-American thing that has ever been said. Quote me on that.

That really is the rottenest thing that has been said in public life in my generation."

Mr. Roosevelt declined to mention names saying merely that the plowing under statement had been used by several individuals.

Senator Wheeler who in a radio speech Sunday referred to the lease-lend bill as "the New Deal's triple A foreign policy—plow under every fourth American boy" retorted at once that Mr. Roosevelt appeared to have lost his temper.

MANHATTAN IS STILL AGROUND

West Palm Beach, Fla. Jan. 15.—(P)—Resisting efforts to salvage her from a scumbar, the 24,280-ton liner Manhattan remained hard aground today while most of her 200 passengers lolled in the sun at Palm Beach.

A strong sea running in a southerly direction in the afternoon plans to attempt to float the Manhattan high tide last night.

On hand to assist the salvage was the coast guard cutter Mojave, the wrecking tug, Walcott and the tug Solomona.

Savage scuttlers looted the 200 sailors of their food on the Manhattan into oil barges to lighten her vessel.

A majority of the cruise passengers stayed in Palm Beach at least temporarily after being rescued Monday. A few however returned to their homes.

Thousands of People In South Ill With Flu

Atlanta, Jan. 15.—(P)—Tens of thousands of south-easters were abed today with a mild form of influenza and schools were closed in scores of rural communities.

Because of the mildness of the disease only two deaths were attributed to it in recent days and the resultant lack of full reports from physicians it was impossible to estimate accurately the number stricken.

Rest cures were placed on public gatherings in Sparta, Tenn. S. C. where 15,000 cases were reported and in the Kingsport, Tenn. area some drugstores remained open 24 hours a day to fill prescriptions.

RYAN FACTORY IN SAN DIEGO FACES WALKOUT

Intervention by National Advisory Defense Commission Appears Likely To Break Deadlock In Negotiations to Avert Strike

WAGE BOOST DEMAND

San Diego Calif. Jan. 15.—(P)—Power to call a walkout should a settlement fail on demands sought in a labor contract was voted last night by 731 of the approximately 1,060 employees of the Ryan Aero nautical Company to the CIO United Automobile Workers Union negotiator.

L. W. Michener, regional UAW director, said only 27 employees voted against the proposal and one cast a blank ballot. The company holds contracts totaling $11,400,000 for military planes.

He said that although only 759 votes were cast, the union is bargaining agent for 1,060 workers.

Intervention by the National Advisory Defense Commission appeared likely to observers here in an attempt to break a deadlock in negotiations and avert the strike.

Joint conferences between union and company representatives were broken off Monday. The impasse was on the union demand for a minimum wage increase from 50 to 75 cents an hour.

Harry C. Malcolm, federal conciliator who was called after the breakdown reported neither side gave any indication of backing down sufficiently to reconcile their views.

Richard F. Frankenstein, chief CIO negotiator said the union would not drop its minimum wage demand below 62 1/2 cents an hour, the scale agreed on at the Donovan plant of the Vultee Aircraft Company after a strike there several weeks ago.

The Ryan Company's counter offer was to maintain the minimum wage scale at 50 cents an hour for beginners who would receive an 11-cent increase of four cents an hour after four and eight month employment.

While the next step is up to the federal conciliator because the dispute now is in his hands, Michener said the union is willing to resume joint negotiations.

A other UAW note into the southern California aircraft industry was reported shortly after the (Turn to Page Nine)

Chicago, Jan. 15.—(P)—In the early afternoon of September 1939 hog prices peaked at 50 to 51 cents a hundredweight, the highest since 1934.

Being for hogs offered in the quantities was unusually high as the dealers paid special prices to accumulate a large stock of hogs.

SECRETARY OF STATE URGES NATION INVOKE LAW OF SELF DEFENSE

Cabinet Member Appearing Before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Support of President Roosevelt's Aid-to-Britain Measure, Expresses Belief Legislation is "Absolutely Necessary" to the Country's Defense; Voices Strong Condemnation of Expansionist Policies in Far East

PROVIDES METHOD TO ALLOCATE RESOURCES IN BEST WAY TO PROVIDE CONTINENT'S SECURITY

Washington, Jan. 15.—(P)—Summoning the nation to "invoke the law of self-defense before it is too late," Secretary of State Hull urged upon Congress today the enactment of legislation for unlimited supplies of war materials to Britain and other nations battling a world movement of conquest.

Hull testified before the house foreign affairs committee in support of President Roosevelt's lease-lend bill. He was the first witness on this historic legislation and he expressed the belief it was absolutely necessary to the nation's defense.

In a statement of about 5,500 words he also said that if the Atlantic ocean fell into German control, it would offer little or no assurance of security.

Hull also took occasion to voice some of the strongest condemnation of the expansionist policies of Japan in the Far East which has been uttered by the administration.

When Hull finished the statement committee members turned to questioning him and Representative Luther A. Johnson (D-Tex.) asked whether a section of the president's lease-lend bill providing for repair of belligerent vessels such as those of Britain in United States ports, violated international law.

Nothing but a realistic view of current developments can be regarded as a sane view," the white-haired Hull replied gravely.

The question is whether in the face of a universally recognized movement of force to invade and conquer peaceful nations shall we wait until the invader crosses their boundary lines—on which they shall recognize that this is a world movement of conquest and invoke the law of self defense before it is too late.

That is the question. Hull declared emphatically "We can take our choice."

To set forth fully his views on the question raised by Johnson, Hull took up one by one laws that might be involved and ended his discussion with the statement:

Only the law of self defense can be evoked from any practical viewpoint."

It was Rep. Johnson also who asked whether in the secretary's judgment the lease-lend bill was absolutely necessary to the defense of the United States.

Hull said he had very unwillingly been driven to the conclusion that it was.

SNOW AND FREEZING RAIN IN PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Jan. 15.—(P)—Frozen rain and sleet put the skids under Pittsburgh motorists and pedestrians today.

Streets in the downtown and suburban sections were encased in ice making travel slow and treacherous. Several collisions and skidding accidents were reported.

Workers leaving buses and street cars usually skated to their offices. At the bottle necks such as the Liberty tube in the South Hills automobile were stalled in long lines.

The weather bureau reported a light rain during the night freeze as it struck the cold streets and sidewalks. In some places the rain coated frozen slush with a thicker finish.

Snow and more freezing rain in western counties was forecast by the weather bureau.

Henry Ford, Firm Believer In Two-Ocean Navy, Sees Training School Get Under Way

SHIPMENT SENT TO ENGLAND BY WARREN GROUP

Mrs. Melvin Keller, chairman of the knitting division of Bundles for Britain, reports that on Monday another large shipment of knitted garments was sent to England's fighting forces.

These garments numbered 115 bringing the total to date to 476. The knitters are to be commended for their unceasing efforts during the Christmas season which made this latest shipment possible.

The large quantity of wool ordered last Thursday was received on Monday bringing the total amount of wool received to date to 604 pounds or 2,416 hanks. When the organization was first launched here the corps of knitters increased more rapidly than it could be supplied and due to the scarcity of funds only Warren knitters could be accommodated. But the matter is now well in hand and Mrs. Keller reports that several interested groups have been formed in nearby communities to assist the local branch in getting as much work done as possible in the next two or three critical months.

The group in Sugar Grove is directed by Mrs. D. H. Haggerty, and the local branch is very glad for its contribution of $12 just received. Mrs. Lyon is in charge of the Farmington Garment group and Mrs. Lindsay of that in Pleasant township.

Gul Scouts are also active in the knitting for Bundles for Britain. This work is under the direction of Mrs. Robert Mackay on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons in the Warren National Bank Building. At present the Scouts are working on an Afghan of 50 squares 15 of which are completed. According to the New York Times of January 5 "More than 5,000 British sailors on the 30 U. S. Navy destroyers transferred to the British navy have been completely equipped with knitted garments by Bundles for Britain. It was announced yesterday. Officers and ratings on many of the destroyers have expressed gratitude for the clothing which consists for the most part of balaklava helmets, sweaters, mufflers, mittens and long seaboot stockings."

The local chairman, Miss Gene Alden Walker, has received word that in all 20,000 garments have been shipped.

Around New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Glad Hill, a New York newspaper man, was telling me about an experience a friend of his had in a Turkish bath. This friend was steaming away in his bath with only his head sticking out, when the fellow in the bath next to him, a foreigner suddenly inquired, "You play chess?"

"Sure," said Hill's friend. "Want to play a game?"

"Okay,"

"Well," said the foreigner, "are you ready?"

"Am I ready?" cried the fellow. "What'll we use for a board?"

"We don't need a board," returned the foreigner quietly.

"Okay," but Hill's friend was awfully puzzled.

"I'll move first," the foreigner said, "is that all right with you?"

"Of course," came the dazed reply.

"Well," said the foreigner, "I move the king's pawn."

At this point Hill's friend broke down and confessed that he was unused to playing tournament chess when all but his ears were submerged in a steam bath. But the foreigner, who seems to have been something of a fanatic on the subject, could visualize the play perfectly. He wasn't kidding. He frequently played games with his friends by telephone or movie while riding about in an automobile. It was very simple, he explained. All you had to do was remember where the pieces stood and to have a picture of the board in your mind. That's every last single thing there was to it, really.

There are 300,000 Jews in Great Britain and Ireland. A 20-pound fish weighs only about one pound in salt water.

HELP THE RED CROSS!

When the war broke out in September, 1939, thousands of women volunteers in chapters all over the nation were prepared to turn from their peace-time work of making garments for disaster victims and civilian relief to the making of similar articles for victims of warfare.

Since then other thousands of women have become active, until today 600,000 women volunteers are carrying on this work in 3,000 chapters. Thousands of men volunteers are engaged in war relief work, packing and transportation and many also as cloth cutters.

In fifteen months since the launching of war relief projects these volunteers have accepted quotas and material for 3,309,805 garments. The quotas are for completion in January when materials for another 4,000,000 garments will be shipped to chapters.

Warmest admiration and gratitude for the loyal and devoted volunteers who are carrying on this work has been repeatedly expressed by the national chairman, Norman H. Davis. He tells of thousands of letters of appreciation for the garments.

One letter from an English woman says: "Some people were bombed, their home destroyed, and they were taken to a large building for shelter. There they found wonderful comfort with American supplies, lovely blankets and warm, new beautifully-made garments. They all heartily thanked and blessed the American Red Cross for their timely help. I wanted you to know your things are gratefully used. Try to think how you would appreciate being given warm, (or any) clothes, if suddenly your home and everything in it fell flat on the ground, and you were left with exactly what you stood up in."

In Warren the Red Cross headquarters are in the Metzger-Wright Company store basement, and are open from one until five every afternoon excepting Saturday. The group is planning to make a partial shipment of its first quota about January 15. A display of these garments is being held this week in one of the Metzger-Wright store windows. All the work has been done by women volunteers in the borough and surrounding county.

The local chapter has a big job ahead to complete its quota by the end of the month. It can be accomplished only if enough women volunteer to help. More units are needed in churches and clubs, and more individuals are needed at the workroom at headquarters—individuals who are interested in this great project to help innocent sufferers in war-torn countries.

No more humanitarian work could be found than participation in the Red Cross projects, and in the same vein nothing meets with more genuine appreciation, not only from those in charge but on the part of the great mass of sufferers who benefit directly through distribution of the articles that are made.

GET YOUR FOUR GALLONS?

People are eating twice as much ice cream today as they did seven years ago. As a matter of fact the Ice Cream Review has it figured out that the per capita consumption of ice cream for people living in a town the size of Warren last year was close to four gallons.

In 1933 the ice cream manufacturing industry was producing approximately 150 million gallons annually. Last year the industry produced 300 million gallons.

The reasons given for this steadily increasing sales are mainly that more people "carry home" ice cream for the family. Improvement in the product with a greater variety of tempting flavors to choose from, are also factors which helped to double the industry's sales.

City folks living where ice cream is more accessible naturally consume more ice cream daily than those living in the country. While the per capita consumption for people living in town is four gallons a year the national average is two and one-half per capita.

The public enjoys ice cream all year round regardless of season. During the so-called winter months 44 per cent of the ice cream manufactured is consumed and 56 per cent during the summer months.

G. O. P. Suspects President Planned it all That Way

Washington, Jan. 15.—The fight over President Roosevelt's aid-the-democracies bill is shaping up as a straight party fight—and Republicans are beginning to suspect the administration planned it that way from the start.

Here is the way one Republican prominent in his party's leadership in the House analyzes what he believes to be administration strategy:

"First of all, we had Mrs. Roosevelt's piece complaining that none of the Republicans applauded the President's message.

"Next the President invited congressional leaders in to confer about this bill. He had all the Democratic leaders from both houses, and apparently took great pains to shape the bill by their advice—but he didn't have in one Republican.

"Next the bill was introduced—not, as you would expect, by the chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, or with any measure of bi-partisan sponsorship, but by the Democratic floor leaders.

"In other words, it has been made strictly a Democratic party bill from the beginning. And we Republicans are rising to the bait."

Making a break along party lines might have two advantages, from a purely political standpoint.

In the first place, the Democrats have plenty of votes in each house to pass the bill without Republican help—provided all of the Democrats can be kept in line. On a bi-partisan issue any Democrat who felt doubtful about the bill could vote against it without getting a black mark on his party record, simply because all party lines would be down anyhow. On a straight party measure, introduced by the floor leader and backed by energetic party leadership, a Democrat would join the opposition at his own peril.

Beyond that, a party break would definitely put the Republican party—as far as Congress is concerned—in the position of being the party of the isolationists. The New Deal is operating on the theory that a large majority of Americans support the aid-the-democracies idea, and during the last campaign repeatedly charged that the Republicans are on the other side of that particular fence.

Lastly, getting the Republicans thus on record might kill the political future of Mr. Wendell Willkie. Republican support for this bill could hardly have been sought without swinging a beam or two from the spotlight on Mr. Willkie. Putting the party on the opposite side would pretty well end his claims to party leadership.

The fight in Congress will be bitter, and there will be strong efforts to amend the bill. But Congressman Vorys of Ohio, who successfully led the fight to amend the bill which revised the neutrality act, doesn't think amending the present bill would help much.

"This is the showdown," he says. "This is the one time Congress gets to pass on the whole policy of aid for Great Britain—with all of its implications. There's little point to amendments. It's the basic policy and the things that are likely to come from following it that matter. Here's where we decide on the whole business—and no congressman will be able to say, afterward, that he didn't know it was loaded."

STAMP NEWS

A STAMP not yet arrived in this country but which will certainly interest Americans is the forthcoming Norway value honoring Knut Hamsun, novelist and winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1920. Hamsun, who was born Aug. 4, 1859, in Lom, Norway, was successively Norwegian schoolmaster, street car conductor in Minneapolis and Chicago, laborer in the North Dakota wheatfields. "Growth of the Soil" is one of his foremost works.

While it is too early to check the full picture of world stamp printings in 1940, it is already clear that there will be several hundred less issues. Approximately 1700 values are known thus far, many of which are doubtful in the catalog.

More than 2200 varieties were issued in 1939.

The United States produced a total of 44 stamps in 1940, 35 in the "Famous American" series, three national defense values, one each for Wyoming and Idaho statehood, the Pony Express, Pan American Union, the Coronado anniversary and the Thirtieth Amendment commemorative.

Rumania, which one of these days may be issuing stamps with the German overprint, seems to have set the record in 1940 with nearly 80 values.

New issues:
Dominican Republic—Five air mail values issued in commemoration of the discovery of America by Columbus, and the Memorial Lighthouse to be erected to his memory. The picture Columbus, his caravels, planes, and the proposed lighthouse.
Yugoslavia—Two air mail values picturing Belgrade and Zagreb.
Russia—six values commemorating the Russian victory in a Crimean village 20 years ago.

Aviation experts report that one long-range bomber can cover in two and one-half hours the territory a destroyer would require 24 hours to patrol.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—A day in the life of a New Yorker at large: Waked at noon and so had breakfast, and then to the office and there found notes from Ferde Grofe, Ben Grauer, and W. Somerset Maugham. And Maugham had made a most interesting mistake in signing a copy of his book, "The Summing Up," for me, for he had written the wrong name on the flyleaf and then under it, "I am so sorry to have written the wrong name, when it is really for George Tucker that I gladly sign this book." . . . Which made it even more interesting than if he had given it the plain signature.

So from the office to 673 Fifth avenue, which is the headquarters in NY for the Canadian National Railways Co., and with my friend L. R. Brooks to a projection room on the second floor where we looked with fascination at many wild life films, some in color, all in sound, of fishing excursions into the Canadian wilds, and goose shooting in Nova Scotia, and pack trains crossing the Great Divide. And seeing them I resolved to go to Canada some day and catch some of those pike myself if the chance ever comes.

LATER to a gallery in E. 57th street where a wide assortment of watercolors and sketches by Milton Caniff, an ex-Dayton, Ohio, boy and an old Columbus Dispatch colleague of mine, were on view, and much taken with the study of a young lad with tousled hair slouched in a chair. Much impressed, too, with the strong that came to see, and with Milton also, who—though usually the calmest of fellows—was plainly fussed. And so made a note to chide him about it some day.

Back to the office where Harrison Wood called me, and we to dinner at the New Yorker and saw the new inc. show, and talked also with Woody Herman, the orchestra leader, who joined us at our table and bade his boys play material.

From coast to coast in nearly every corner of the United States some four hundred Rotary clubs are undertaking a project designed to have a far reaching effect in the understanding of problems now facing the American people. The project is the Institute of Understanding, which is a streamlined version of the old fashioned town hall that played so large a part in the making of the nation. Each institute consists of four outstanding speakers, each an expert in his particular field. They hold their forums one week apart. In many localities programs of this sort are beyond the reach of many from a standpoint of cost but such is not the case with the Rotary Institute of Understanding for each club is charging the bare amount necessary to cover the cost of the lecture.

Warren's institute begins on Thursday, January 23, at the high school and continues on three succeeding Thursday evenings at a cost of one dollar for the four lectures and forums. Single admissions may be obtained at fifty cents each.

The subject of the first lecture will be "What's Ahead for Business Agriculture, Labor" with Major C. Douglas Booth of New York City as the speaker and expert. On the succeeding Thursdays the subjects will be: "Human Values in a Changing Order," "An Impoverished World," "The Whole World and the New World," with Dr. No-Yong Park, Dr. Nicholas R. Doman, and Dr. John A. Morrison as the experts interpreting the subject matter.

Tickets are now on sale through members of the Warren Rotary Club, Muller's Drug Store and the Y. M. C. A.

Masterstroke of Luck

Fifty years ago the father of Mrs. George Pelz, of Brooklyn, bought an oil portrait in an obscure Italian gallery. Mr. and Mrs. Pelz always considered it just another painting. Recently Henry L. Maloney, director of the Brooklyn Contemporary Arts Gallery, pronounced it an original Rembrandt, probably "The Banner Carrier of Amsterdam." He is pictured looking at the painting, whose value he estimates at $750,000.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE ON WATER PIPES FREEZING

... Repairs can cost you real money.

In icy weather, be sure your water pipes are protected. Frozen pipes cost real money and inconvenience the entire family.

Here's a way to save yourself worry and possible repair bills. Just follow this simple plan for protecting your water pipes.

- (1) Stuff all cracks around basement doors and windows—keeps cold air out and warm air in.
- (2) Wrap exposed pipes in rags or paper.
- (3) And on freezing nights let the water trickle all night from one faucet. A quart a minute is enough. This safeguard, costing just a few pennies a night, can save you BIG repair bills.

YESTERDAY: David Wiley thinks it would be very simple to solve everything, for life, by marrying Polly. But Polly thinks it better to put off the wedding indefinitely, and although she does not say so, one reason she thinks that is Margo Powers. Margo is all glamour, and in addition she is the daughter of David's boss, and could be helpful. Now David and his young cousin Peter are finishing the dishes, and David is going out with Margo later.

not I looked odd in it." Aloud she said: "The modern girls do things like that. David. You'll have to get accustomed to that sort of thing."

"Just the same, I don't like it," said David. "I'm beginning to think this new freedom women have got is spoiling them."

"This is no time to wax philosophical about the modern female," said Polly. "And you'd better be on your way. Even if Margo is modern as all getout, you wouldn't want to keep her waiting."

Chapter 12
Telling Polly

"I'll do the dishes, Cousin David," Peter said, as David drank his second cup of coffee. "You go get dolled up."

"Thanks," David replied. "You're all right, Peter." Then, when he was dressed, he said: "I'm going over to see Polly for a few minutes. I'll be back before Margo gets here."

Peter eyed him. "I sure hope Polly's not going to be sore because you're going out with another girl."

"She won't be," David assured. "Polly's not the sort to get sore."

It was only a short walk to the Jenkins cottage, and when David got there he found Polly working in the front yard.

"Don't you ever get tired of digging?" he called.

"No," said Polly. "I love it—"

She stood looking David over. "My, aren't we all dressed up?"

"Yep," said David. "I've got a date—with Margo."

"You have! How exciting!" Polly smiled. "You're a picture for sore eyes, David, in your ice-cream pants and that blue serge coat."

"Thanks," said David. "I haven't got a lot of time, but I wanted you to know about the date. I'd have telephoned you, only you don't have a phone."

"Come on up on the porch," Polly invited. Then when they were seated, she said: "You don't have to report to me every single time that you have a date."

"I know that," said David. "It's that that we've always been honest with each other." He lit a cigarette. "I didn't really want to make the date, but Margo came out to the plant and asked me, point-blank, so what could I do?"

"Accept, of course," said Polly. "I'd much rather be dancing with you, David, than with another girl. But Margo seems to think I'm due a little recreation, and—since he likes me, I reckon I ought to be nice to his daughter."

"Of course!" said Polly with a brightness that struck David as being a bit forced. "You'll go far with the Powers Lumber Company if you play your cards right, as the saying goes. Where are you dancing?"

"At that large roadhouse out on the State Highway."

"Isn't it a pretty noisy sort of place?"

"That's what I told Margo, but she's set her mind on going there."

"And when Margo sets her mind on a thing," said Polly, "she usually gets it." She was tempted to add: "Even when it's another girl's property." But she didn't. She said instead: "Oh, well, have a good time, David. Maybe Margo can teach you some new steps, and then you can teach them to me."

"What good will that do?" David retorted. "Here of late you don't seem interested in anything but digging, and dodging all references to our marriage."

"Oh, but I am interested in something else!" said Polly.

"What?"

"Job-hunting," said Polly. "There's a chance I may get a part-time job down at The Arcadia Picture Theatre."

"What doing?"

"Cashier-ing. Letitia Rowe wants to visit New York for a couple of weeks. The manager of the theatre says he'd like to have someone to take her place."

"Think you'd like that?" David asked. "You know you have to work pretty late at night."

David got up.

"I still wish it was you I had the date with," he said.

"Oh, you've had plenty of dates with me," Polly said. "It's high time you went in for a bit of variety."

"Okay," said David. "But there's one thing I want you to keep on remembering."

"What's that?"

"That we're still engaged, even if—if we aren't working at it."

"Silly!" said Polly. "Go along with you! You've spoiled my plans to work in the yard. It's too dark to go now."

"Good night, Polly."

"Good night, David. Have a good time."

"I'll try."

Polly gave him a little push. "Hurry. Don't keep the lady waiting."

"I mean, Polly, I—I—"

"David! You've got a date. Go keep it!"

"Oh, the devil!" said David.

Dancing

AT eleven o'clock that night David was holding Margo Powers in his arms. They were moving over the crowded dance floor of the Pleasure Palace.

"It's certainly a garish sort of place," said David, looking around.

"Yes, it is," said Margo. "But it's been fun. Haven't you had a good time?"

"Sure!" said David. "Only it seems kind of strange dancing in a place like this with a girl like you. You don't belong in such a mixed crowd."

"Neither do you, David," Margo said. "But it's the best we can do for the time being." She let her hand slip up until her fingers touched the back of David's neck.

"Where we really belong—you and I—is down on Long Island, dancing at a country club I know about; or in the Rainbow Room. Or in lots of fascinating places I could name over in Europe."

"And be hit by a bomb," said David.

They danced in silence for a time.

David found himself holding Margo closer and closer to keep her from coming in too intimate contact with the other dancers, some of whom were rowdy and not overly clean. And the feel of her so close to him fired his blood.

How she could dance! Like a bit of thistledown. Light, smooth—following every step he used, and making it easy for him to learn the steps she knew. On and on, Margo in his arms, her cheek close to his, her fingers warm against his neck.

Someone bumped into them.

"Sorry!" said a shrill-voiced, hard-faced blonde.

"Sure," said her partner. "Pardon our intrusion."

They both laughed much too loudly to hear any more.

"Let's get out of here," said David.

"All right, let's do," said Margo. "It is getting a bit too much."

They went out and got into Margo's car. She sank back into her seat.

"Where is David?" she asked.

"Home—I suppose," said David. "It's getting pretty late."

"No, I tell you," said Margo, "let's drive out to your old Inn. I'd like to see what it looks like by moonlight."

"Pretty forlorn, I'm afraid," said David. "Better wait until daytime."

"No. The moonlight always softens a scene. Let's go now, David."

"Okay," said David.

Why not? It would give him a chance to see what progress Polly and Peter had made with the flower beds. And he could have a look at the pool, maybe pace off some distances, get an idea about how much piping he would need.

Margo released the brake. They slid off into the night.

And when they arrived at the Inn, David had to admit that Margo had been right. The moonlight did soften a scene. Freddy's Polly didn't look at all shabby. It looked almost romantic. And if you stretched your imagination, you could hear an orchestra playing a dreamy waltz. Near the clink of glass, the clatter as waiters served drinks and food out on the wide veranda.

"What a shame," said Margo, "that your uncle couldn't have made a really exciting resort out of this place."

"Yes," said David. "He just didn't get any breaks."

Margo got out of the car, and, holding the long skirt of her pale yellow dress frock high to keep it away from the dew, she ran up to the veranda. She stood there—framed between two of the supporting posts.

David stared at her. What a picture! What an amazingly beautiful picture the girl made!

He joined her. He stood beside her. They said nothing. It was as still as death. Not even the soft twittering of birds gone to roost, or the chirping of a cricket. Silence soft and seductive.

REVOLVER LEAGUE
AGAIN REORGANIZED

A meeting of pistol enthusiasts was held last night at the city building for the purpose of reorganizing the Warren Revolver League.

The marksmen decided to reorganize by clubs and teams, with the following entering, Complanter, Irvine, State Motor Police, Borough Police, Bankers and the Postoffice.

The schedule for the league will be released later. The first match will be held Tuesday.

Dave Worley was named president and Ellsworth P. Wright was elected secretary-treasurer.

Plans Progressing
For Broadcast Of Third Inauguration

Additional plans for broadcasting President Roosevelt's third inauguration next week are taking shape, according to the Associated Press.

On the Sunday eve of the ceremonies, three networks, WEA, NBC, CBS and MBS, will present a half hour of the inauguration concert by the National Symphony in Constitution Hall, Washington, with Nelson Eddy as soloist. Charlie Chaplin will make a rare radio appearance when he reads the closing speech of the movie, "The Great Dictator."

Monday night after the inauguration, which will be described in detail, starting around 11 a. m., WJZ-NBC will broadcast a special hour program, "Our Nation Invisible," when noted Americans, both by birth and adoption, will speak. Included are Ignace Jan Paderewski, Thomas Mann and Albert Einstein.

Starting Sunday, 24 hours before the actual ceremony, MBS plans five-minute broadcasts every hour on the hour as brief previews. The last will be at 11 a. m. Monday.

"TUSS" M'LAUGHRY
DARTMOUTH COACH

Hanover, N. H., Jan. 15.—(P)—William H. McCarter, director of athletics at Dartmouth College, announced today that Dr. Ormond "Tuss" McLaughry, football coach at Brown University, had been engaged to succeed Earl Blaik as Dartmouth mentor.

Blaik recently accepted an offer to coach football at West Point.

McLaughry, one of New England's veteran football men, has handled the Brown eleven for 15 years and previously has coached at Amherst, where he's team won the "Little Three" championship.

Probably the best team McLaughry turned out was his "Iron Men" of 1926.

Piso's PLUS-ACTION* Explodes Theory That Cough Medicine Only Soothes Your Throat!

The very first spoonful of Piso's brings soothing comfort to your irritated throat membranes. But you also get an important plus-action in this modern formula Piso's.

*Piso's actually stimulates your system to produce more protective secretions in your throat and upper bronchial passages. These normal fluids thin and liquefy thick, clogging phlegm . . . it's more easily flushed away . . . your cough is "loosened!"

Depend on Piso's (Pie-so's) . . . not for its local "throat soothing" action alone . . . but for its more important inside-working systemic effect. Piso's is good for adults and children. At all druggists in 35c-60c bottles.

Ryan Factory In San Diego Faces Walkout

strike vote had been taken at the Ryan plant. James Dickerson, international representative for the Ryan plant, said a labor election would be held January 24 at the Solar Aircraft plant here.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 15.—(P)—Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner called a conference in his executive office this afternoon to seek settlement of CIO strikes in five plants of the Eaton Manufacturing Co., which is making airplane parts on national defense sub-contracts.

Van Wagoner said he had received the assurance of Irvan Carey, president of the UAW-APL, which holds an exclusive bargaining contract at the Saginaw plant, that some 250 CIO members who were involved in a strike last November could be returned to their jobs a few at a time. The governor added he was informed that more than 25 of them returned to work this morning.

Detroit, Jan. 15.—(P)—A settlement of a strike which has closed four of the five Eaton Manufacturing Co. plants in two states and threatened interruption of work on defense orders was expected today.

After a night of conferences with representatives of the company and two rival labor unions, James P. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, said he was "hopeful" for a quick end to the dispute.

The most powerful aircraft engine ever built is reported to be the Italian Fiat A. S. 6, which develops 3100 horsepower.

"Grass Roots" Republicans Endorse James Legislative Program and Seek Support

The resolution approving the governor's legislative program was introduced by Herman Galletti, secretary of the Italian Division of the Republican party in Pittsburgh. It passed by a vote of 67 to 22, with more than 100 not voting.

Another resolution, offered by former Judge M. Ward Fleming of Centre county, was unanimously adopted. It declared the time had come for Pennsylvania Republicans to "face certain facts with courage and realism."

A score of suggestions on ways to liberalize the party were offered, such as "get closer to the little man," "stop bickering and jealousy among party leaders," pay more attention to the farm counties; "include candidates of foreign extraction on your slates"; "eliminate the straight party ballot," and "pick the right kind of candidates and they'll win."

The daily war bulletin said also there had been artillery and patrol activity around Tobruk, on the Libyan coast, and the oasis post at Giarabub, 150 miles south of Bardia.

Activity on the Albanian front was described as local and unimportant.

The crew of three was detained pending a decision whether they should be interned under international law.

Over and above the normal taxes collected by the "protective" authorities the report stated, German war taxes have been introduced which brought the Reich an estimated 600,000,000 crowns annually. Since the customs union decree has abolished customs barriers an estimated 2,500,000,000 crowns in consumption and turnover taxes now flow directly to the German treasury, providing the Reich with 3,000,000,000 crowns ($100,000,000) annually from Bohemia and Moravia.

on Main street which were threatened carried out their furniture.

The two-story frame bakery, 350 feet long, covered an entire block. Its only assets saved were a fleet of 10 trucks, driven out of a garage before the fire gained headway. A member of the company estimated loss of $75,000. Musser, the grocer, estimated his loss at $25,000. Owners of the other buildings said damage caused by water would be heavy.

Residents from miles around came here to watch the fire, whose glare in the sky was easily visible from Somerset, eight miles to the north.

The burning of tar covering the roofs of the bakery and the Musser grocery threw a dense smoke into the streets, handicapping firemen. Departments from Rockwood, Confluence, Somerset, Meyersdale and Salisbury fought the blaze.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Political observers see in the election of Sen. Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, as president pro tem of the Senate another definite step for the preservation of unity in Democratic ranks.

Less serious observers in things behind the news see it merely as Senator Harrison's coming to his own, after nine years in the House of Representatives, 21 years in the Senate, and 30 years of being one of the most consistently popular men on Capitol Hill.

The two observations fall into a pattern. The Senator's acid tongue has for many years made him one of the most feared adversaries in debate. In other days, when the Democrats were in the minority, he was the "Democratic gadfly," sailing about the Senate and stinging the Republicans on every issue that came up. But through it all, he managed somehow to save the wounds he made and pull out his stingers with a soothing word that invariably left his victims more deeply in his friendship than before.

Third Term Supporter

IN THE intra-party tracings of recent years, Senator Pat has been on both sides. He has scored the New Deal on occasion and ripped into administration policies. But he also has fought just as hard with his shoulder against that of the most rabid New Dealers and when the third term issue popped, he was one of the first to declare the country must have the President for another four years. And this in spite of the fact that when the post of majority leader was open and he definitely was in line for that important party assignment, President Roosevelt threw it to Senator Alben Barkley.

There is a story that Senator Harrison agreed to take the job of president pro tem, provided Vice President Wallace should stay on the job. The Senator said he did not want to be "used in the ring." He was assured that he would not be, but the legend may be on the Senator on that score, for the conviction is growing that the new Vice President is going to spend much of his time on good-will missions, especially to Latin and South American countries.

That, too, fits into the picture drawn by political observers, for what man could be so valuable (to the administration) in the Senate chair in absence of the Vice President as Pat Harrison? The Mississippi can pour more oil on troubled party waters in a minute than most Senate presidents could in a lifetime.

Has Mellowed Some

SENATOR PAT is nearing 60. He has mellowed some in recent years. His voice has lost its whiplash sting. His once-red hair is thinning and ashen. His shoulders are a little stooped, but when occasion arises, he still is the same Pat who used to delight the galleries with his exchange of exhortations with Indiana's Republican Jim Watson in the twenties and could deliver his colleagues even more by whispered quips. Of the latter, an example:

After belaboring not only the Republicans but Senator Watson personally, Senator Harrison crossed the aisle and tapped his opponent on the shoulder, saying, "Jim, ain't I the worst damage you ever heard?"

To which Watson replied, "No, Pat, I am." Senator Harrison rose to his feet from a newsboy in the small Mississippi town in which he was born. He has been a politician for his adult life, serving six years as county attorney and after he finished college and coming to the House in 1910. In recent years, as chairman of the finance committee, he has had a hand in framing tax laws to raise the huge sums required for the New Deal, expenditures and national defense.

DAIRYMEN HOLD ANNUAL SESSION IN SUGAR GROVE

The Sugar Grove Local Dairy-men's League Cooperative Association, held its annual meeting at the Presbyterian church at that place, with an oyster dinner served at noon by the ladies of the church.

The usual business was transacted and the director, E. M. Grout, of Kennedy, N. Y., gave a resume of the activities of the past few months. An analysis of the referendum on the amendments recently presented showed lower price trends rather than higher and the speaker stated that the whole attitude of the department of agriculture seemed to be coercion and misinformation.

Mr. Grout also gave a report of litigation in hotels, where large groups of cooperatives and individuals have been forced to sue the secretary of agriculture to protect their constitutional rights and maintain the standard of transacting their own business in the American way.

The group voted unanimously to ask their director to represent them as a unit. On January 31 the sub-district meeting will be held in Ellery Center, N. Y., it was announced, with the vice president, Henry Rathbun, as speaker.

The meeting's roll call showed a large and representative group.

ACCURATE READING OF DEFENSE HANDS BRINGS VICTORY

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Jeff Glick, Miami, Fla., one of the new open team-of-four champions, has long been recognized as a great card player. He was a member of the champion team in 1934 and runner-up in the Masters team-of-four contest the same year.

Glick gives a nice demonstration of accurate card reading in today's hand. The opening lead was won by the ace of hearts and a low trump lead went to West's ace. West found the best defense by returning the queen of clubs and Glick won with the king. Glick decided that West's trump ace must have been a singleton, so he now led a small trump and finessed the nine. The king of trumps was cashed and a heart led to the king, so that Glick could cash the queen of spades to pick up the jack. On the trump leads West let go hearts, and a diamond was discarded from dummy.

How was Glick to avoid the loss of a club trick, and two diamonds, besides the ace of trumps? He counted that West must have been dealt exactly seven hearts and one spade. His club lead must have been from at least three clubs, so that he could not have more than two diamonds, probably less. On this count, the odds were good that East held both king and queen of diamonds, and Glick planned an end-play against him.

First it was necessary to void East of clubs, to take out his exit. Hoping to find East with no more than three clubs, Glick now cashed the ace and led the third round. West won and led a heart, forcing out North's last trump. But now Glick led a low diamond. East was forced to win and return a diamond into the major tenace.

ABOUT AIR
Pure dry air is composed of a mixture of gases containing 20.93 per cent oxygen, 79.04 per cent nitrogen, 0.03 per cent carbon dioxide. Inert gases form 1 per cent of the nitrogen. Water vapor and dust particles are included in atmospheric air.

The army recently revealed a purchase of eight million dollars' worth of modern "flying fortress bombers." Every four days the army receives one of these 22-ton planes.

Honey's density varies, but the standard weight for it is set at approximately 12 pounds to the gallon.

Mechanized Warfare a la Mode

General Winter, arch foe of modern, mechanized armies, isn't going to outwit Uncle Sam's troops under any circumstances. If the ski troops of the 16th Infantry have anything to say about it. Training at Lake Placid, N. Y., where they're pictured, they have little trouble with anti-tank guns in snow or on ice. A specially constructed ski-mobile transport pulls ski-mounted gun into position, as seen below, and, above, they're all set to fire.
